Public Health Portal

The Library now has a public health web page at <https://www.uthealth.org/publichealthinfoportal>. It includes sections on:

- General Public Health
- Epidemiology and Statistics
- Community Health
- Healthcare Administration & Finance
- Infectious Diseases

The Portal is meant to be a “one-stop-shop” for our public health information resources and many other web sites containing such information. It is linked under Specialty Portals on the Library’s home page.

JAMA Now Online via the Library

At long last, the Library has online access to JAMA (Journal of the American Medical Association). It is linked from the Library’s e-journal portal (on the right side of all Library web pages) and will ultimately be linked from the online catalog, PubMed, and Google Scholar. In the meantime, you can click the publisher icon () in any JAMA article’s abstract in PubMed to access the full article. The Library does not have the printed version of JAMA starting with this year, but the older printed issues will be retained indefinitely.

Reserved Library Computers

Some of the Library’s computers are occasionally reserved in advance. On the day they are to be used, the reserved computers will have a RESERVED sign that includes the times that they are not accessible to others. Computers may only be reserved for official use.

Public Telephones

The Library has two public phones. One is located on the back side of the computer workstations. The other is in the Zager Reading Room in the back corner of the Library.

In addition, a phone is located by the TV monitor across the hall from the Library. All three phones are labeled with the Dispatch phone number. The phone outside the Library is also labeled with the number of the IT Help Desk.

Thank You

- Pam Rice, University Physician Associates
- Don Hunt, Nursing/Patient Centered Care
