Library Web Pages

The new Library landing page (<https://www.uthct.edu/library>) and other web pages are being converted to the new campus web page design. This will affect some of our web pages more than others. Until the Specialty Portals are directly linked again, you can get to Biotechnology and Public Health links at Web Sites by Subject.

If you receive a security warning when trying to access other pages, either proceed past the security warning, or delete 's' from 'http' in the URL box and press Enter.

New Journals

The New Journals list that is linked below highlights Springer journal archives as well as new open access content. Much of this journal content will be linked from PubMed and Google Scholar as well as being listed in our WebVoyage online catalog and our e-journal locator.

Library Facilities

The shelf stacks nearest the private study rooms are now empty, awaiting disassembly and storage to make room for a new row of partitioned workstations. Each of these will accommodate two people or will allow one person to spread out. We plan to eventually have laptops available for use on the new worktops. We expect installation in fall or early winter.
